MIRACLES OF SCIENCE

We are living in an Age of Science. Our electrically lighted and steam-heated homes, our prepared and preserved food, our synthetic clothing are all the results of patient scientific research.

We travel across vast lands in fast electric trains. We ride across bridges. We fly in huge airplanes over great distances of land and water. We send and receive messages by means of telephone, radio and television. We know what is happening around the world by reading our newspapers and by listening to our radios.

Our doctors now cure many diseases which resulted in death only a few years ago.

This Age of Science did not come suddenly. It has taken centuries of scientific research and invention to develop the civilization of the modern age.
